Anna

PHOTOGRAPHED BY PHIL ABERCROMBIE

Anna likes to stay at home. She's very shy. And soft. In fact, she's as easy to turn on as a television (once you're inside the door). She got quite excited at the idea of being photographed in her natural habitat, especially when we mentioned shedding her clothes gradually.

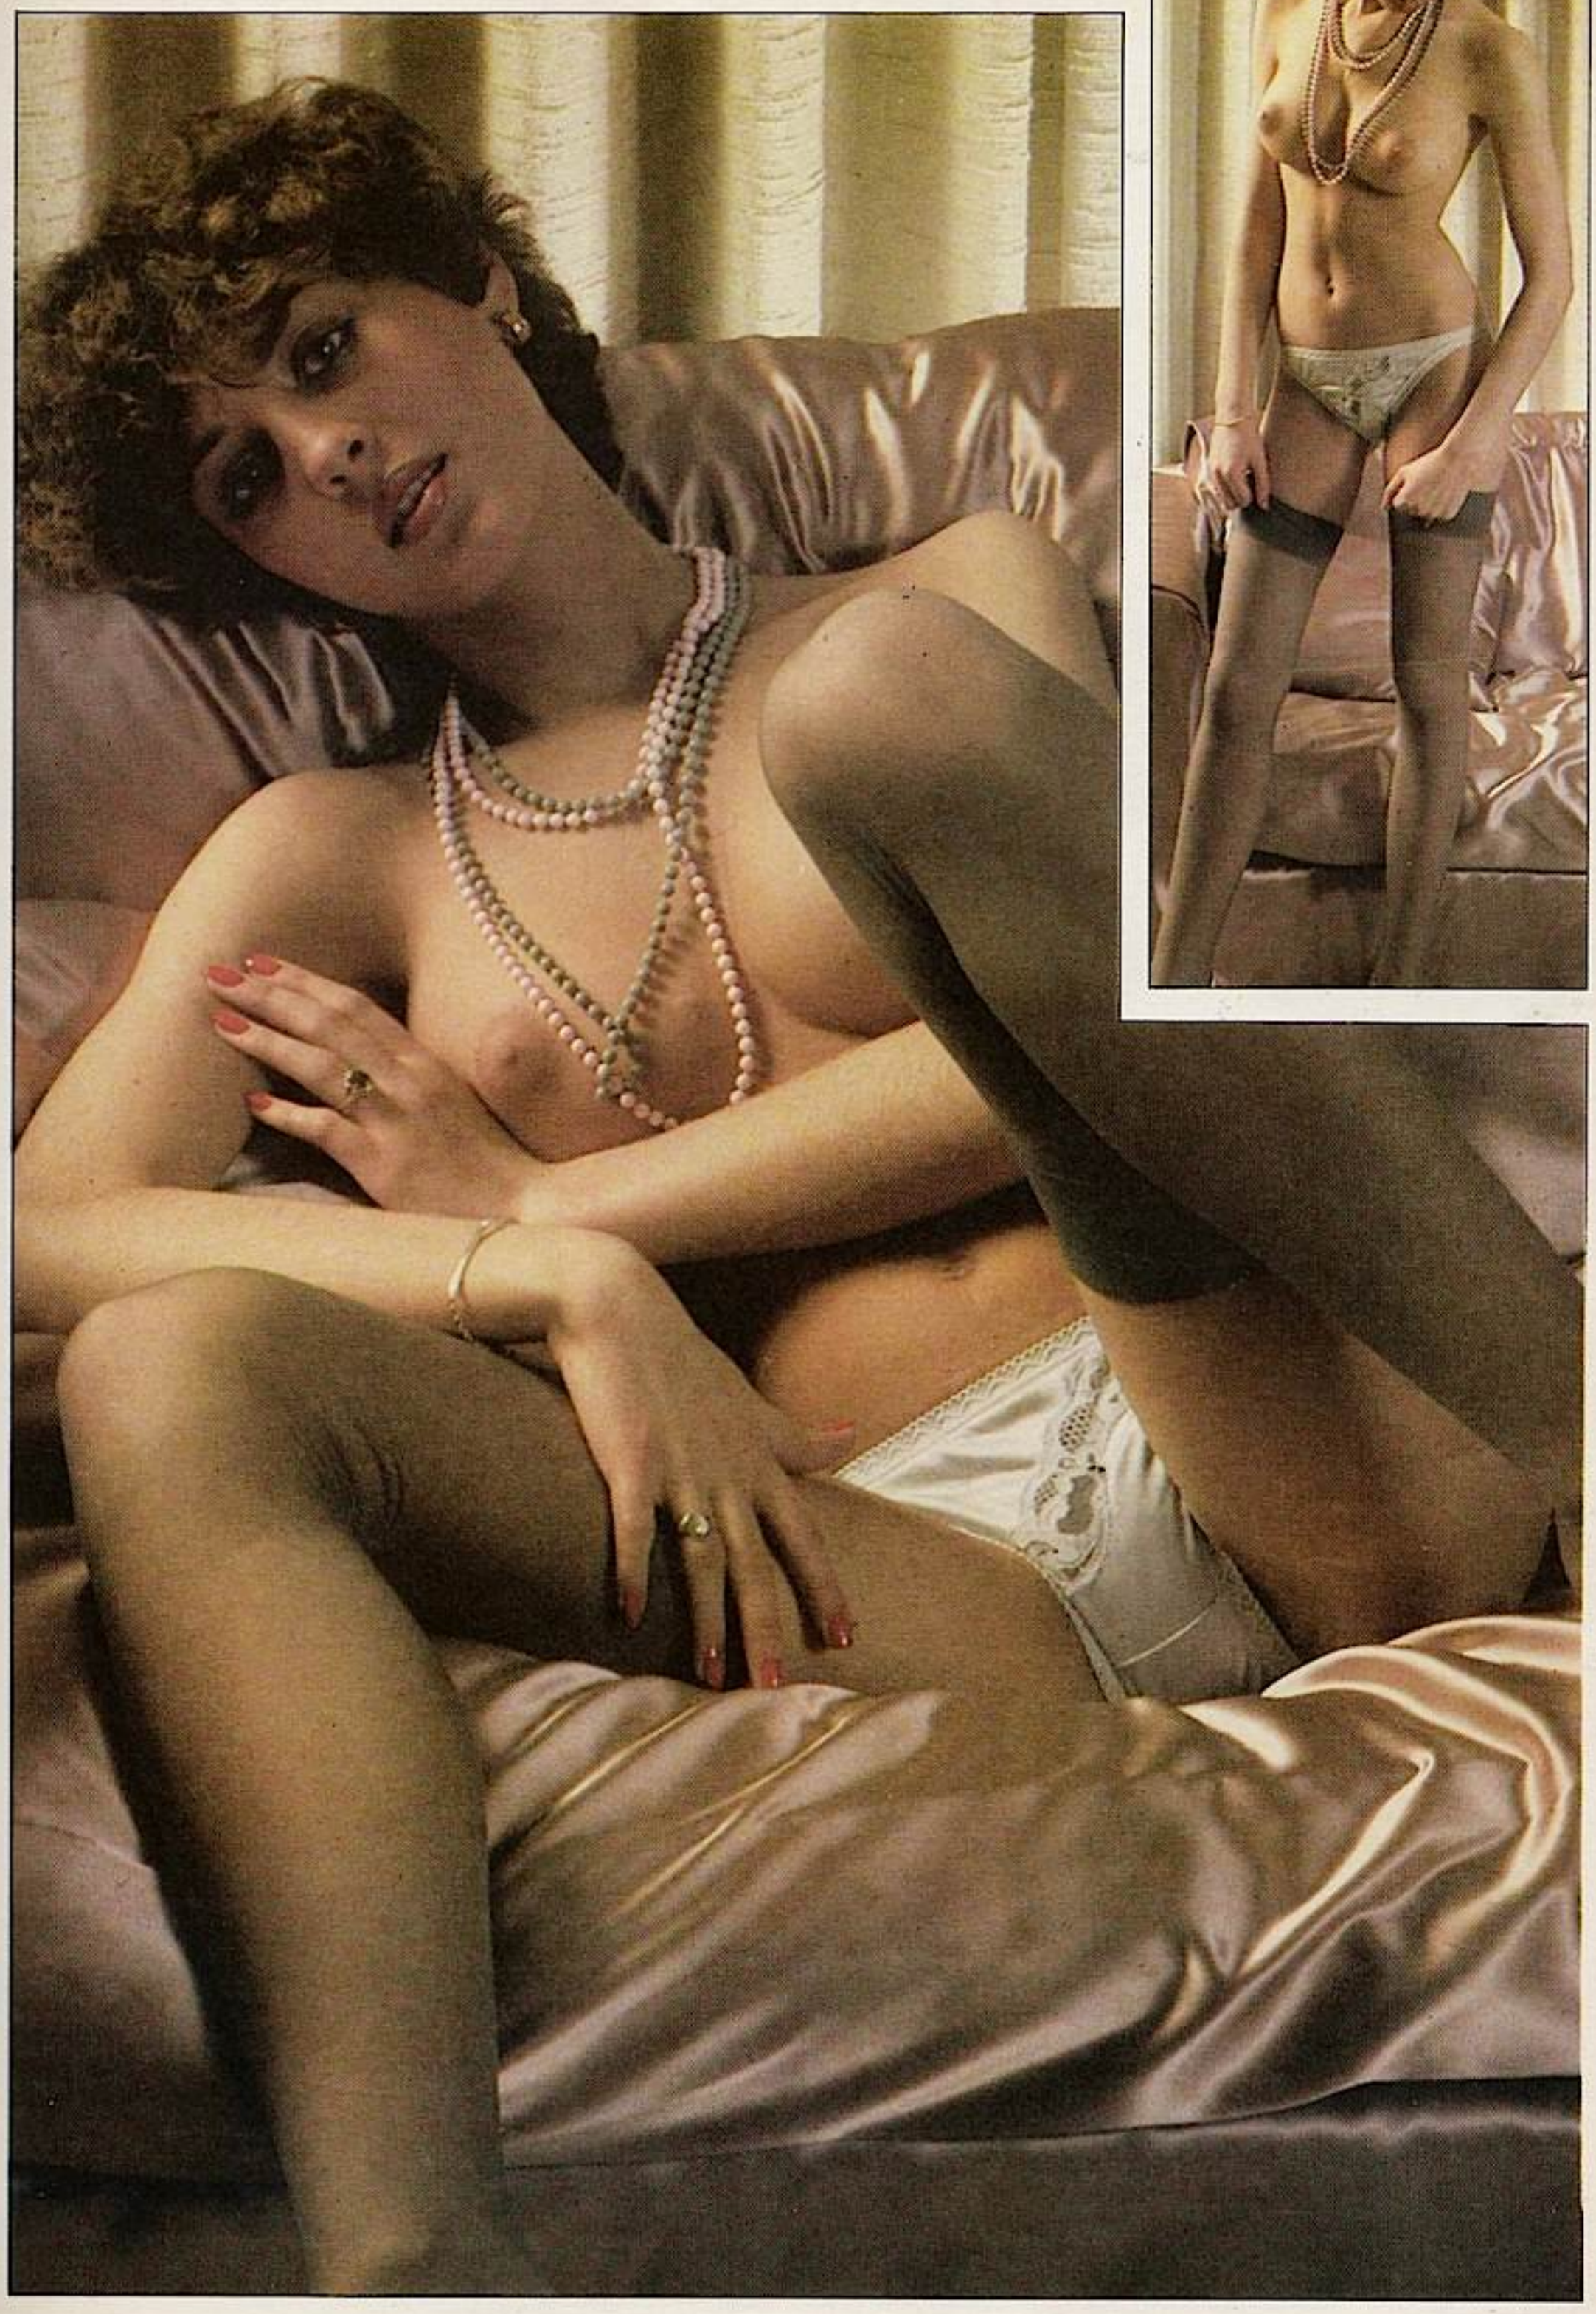
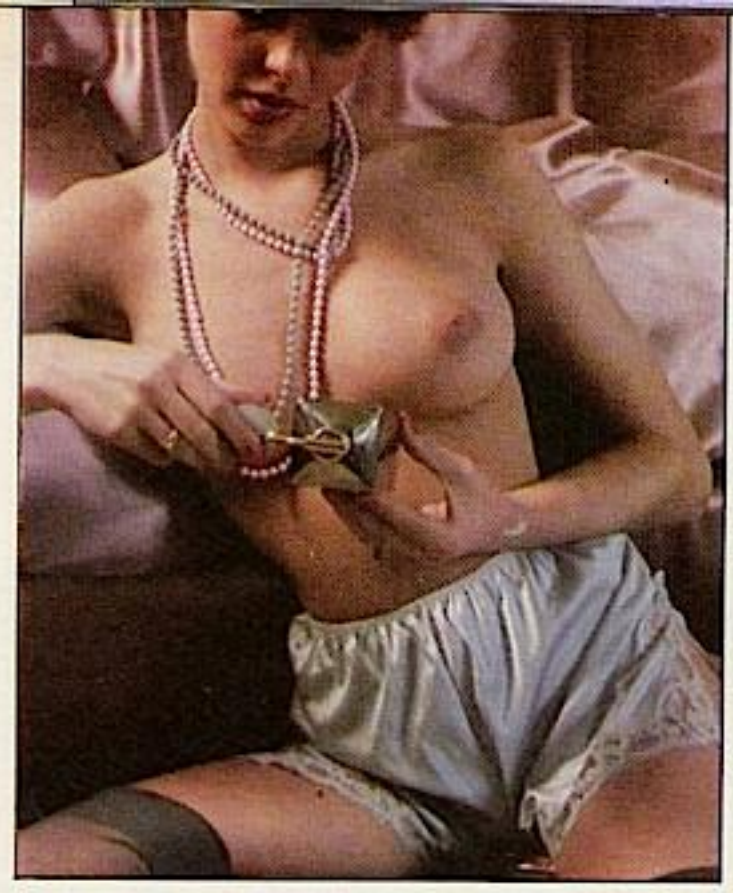
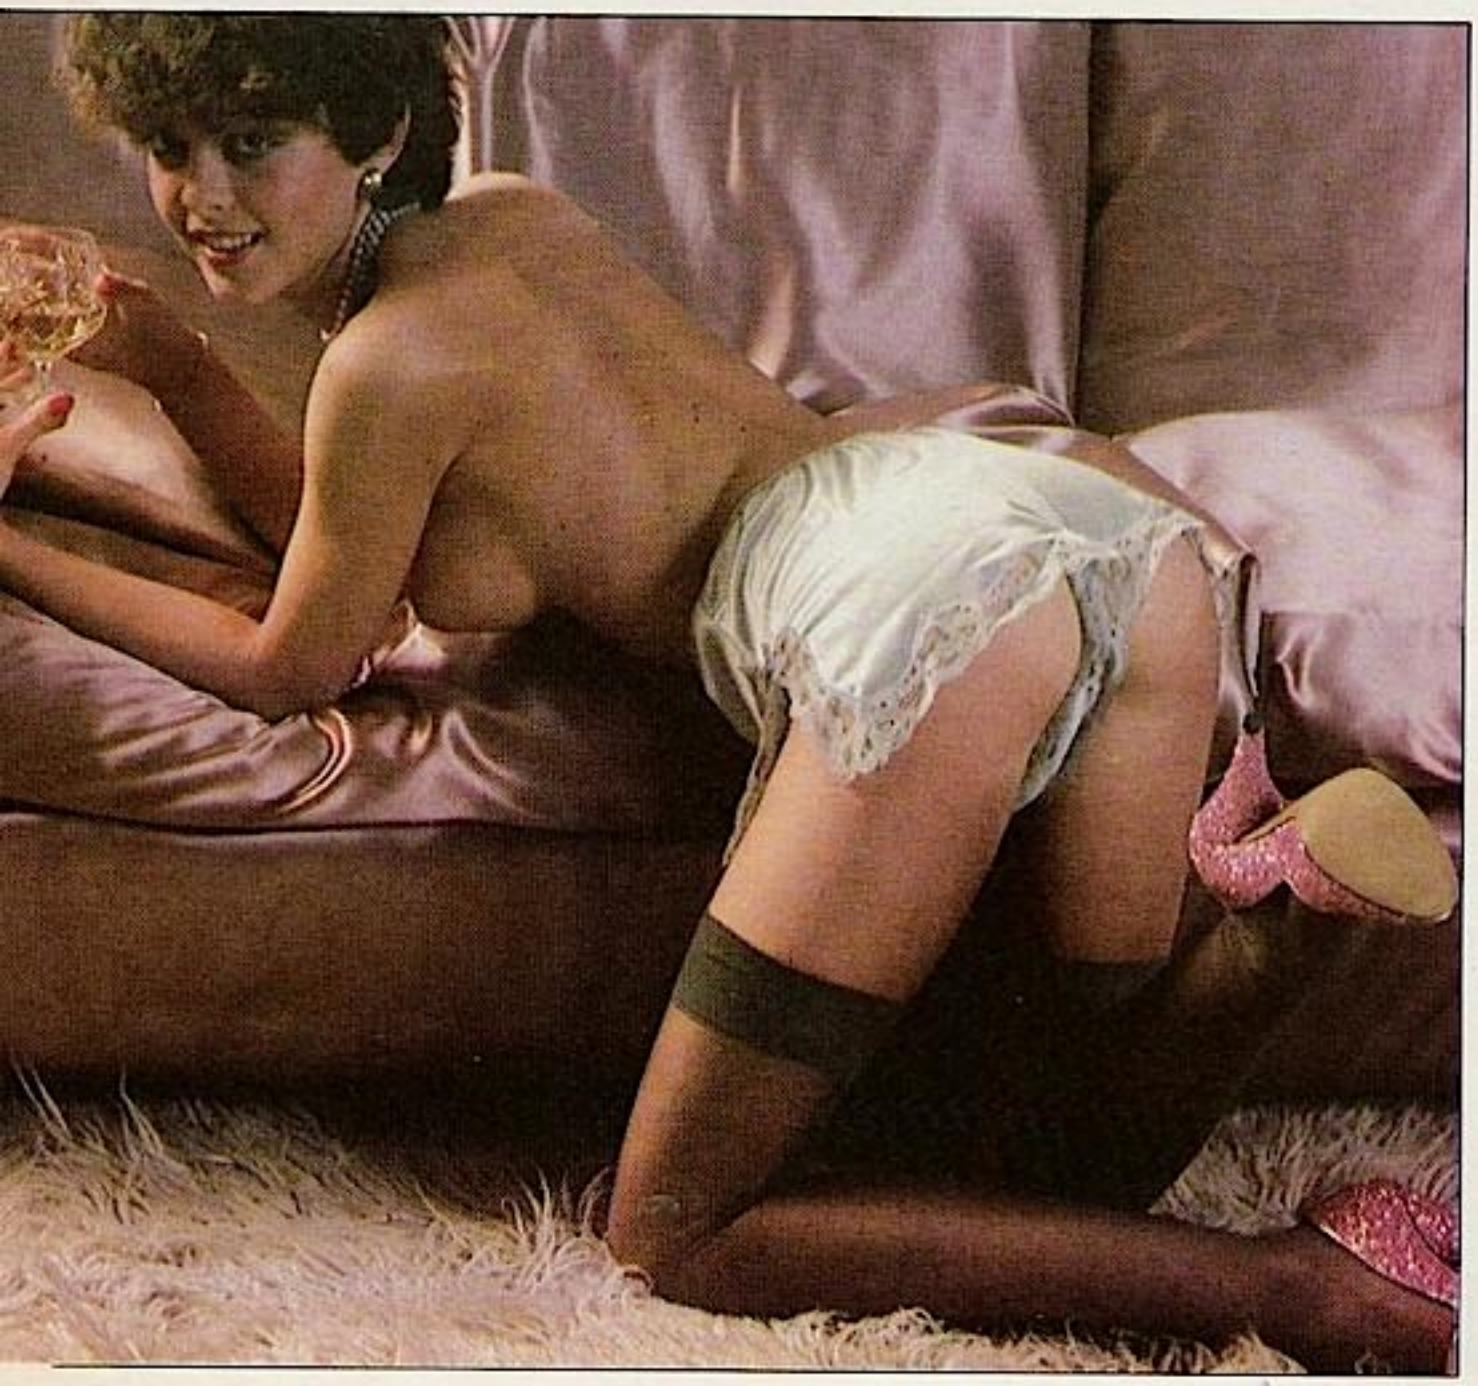
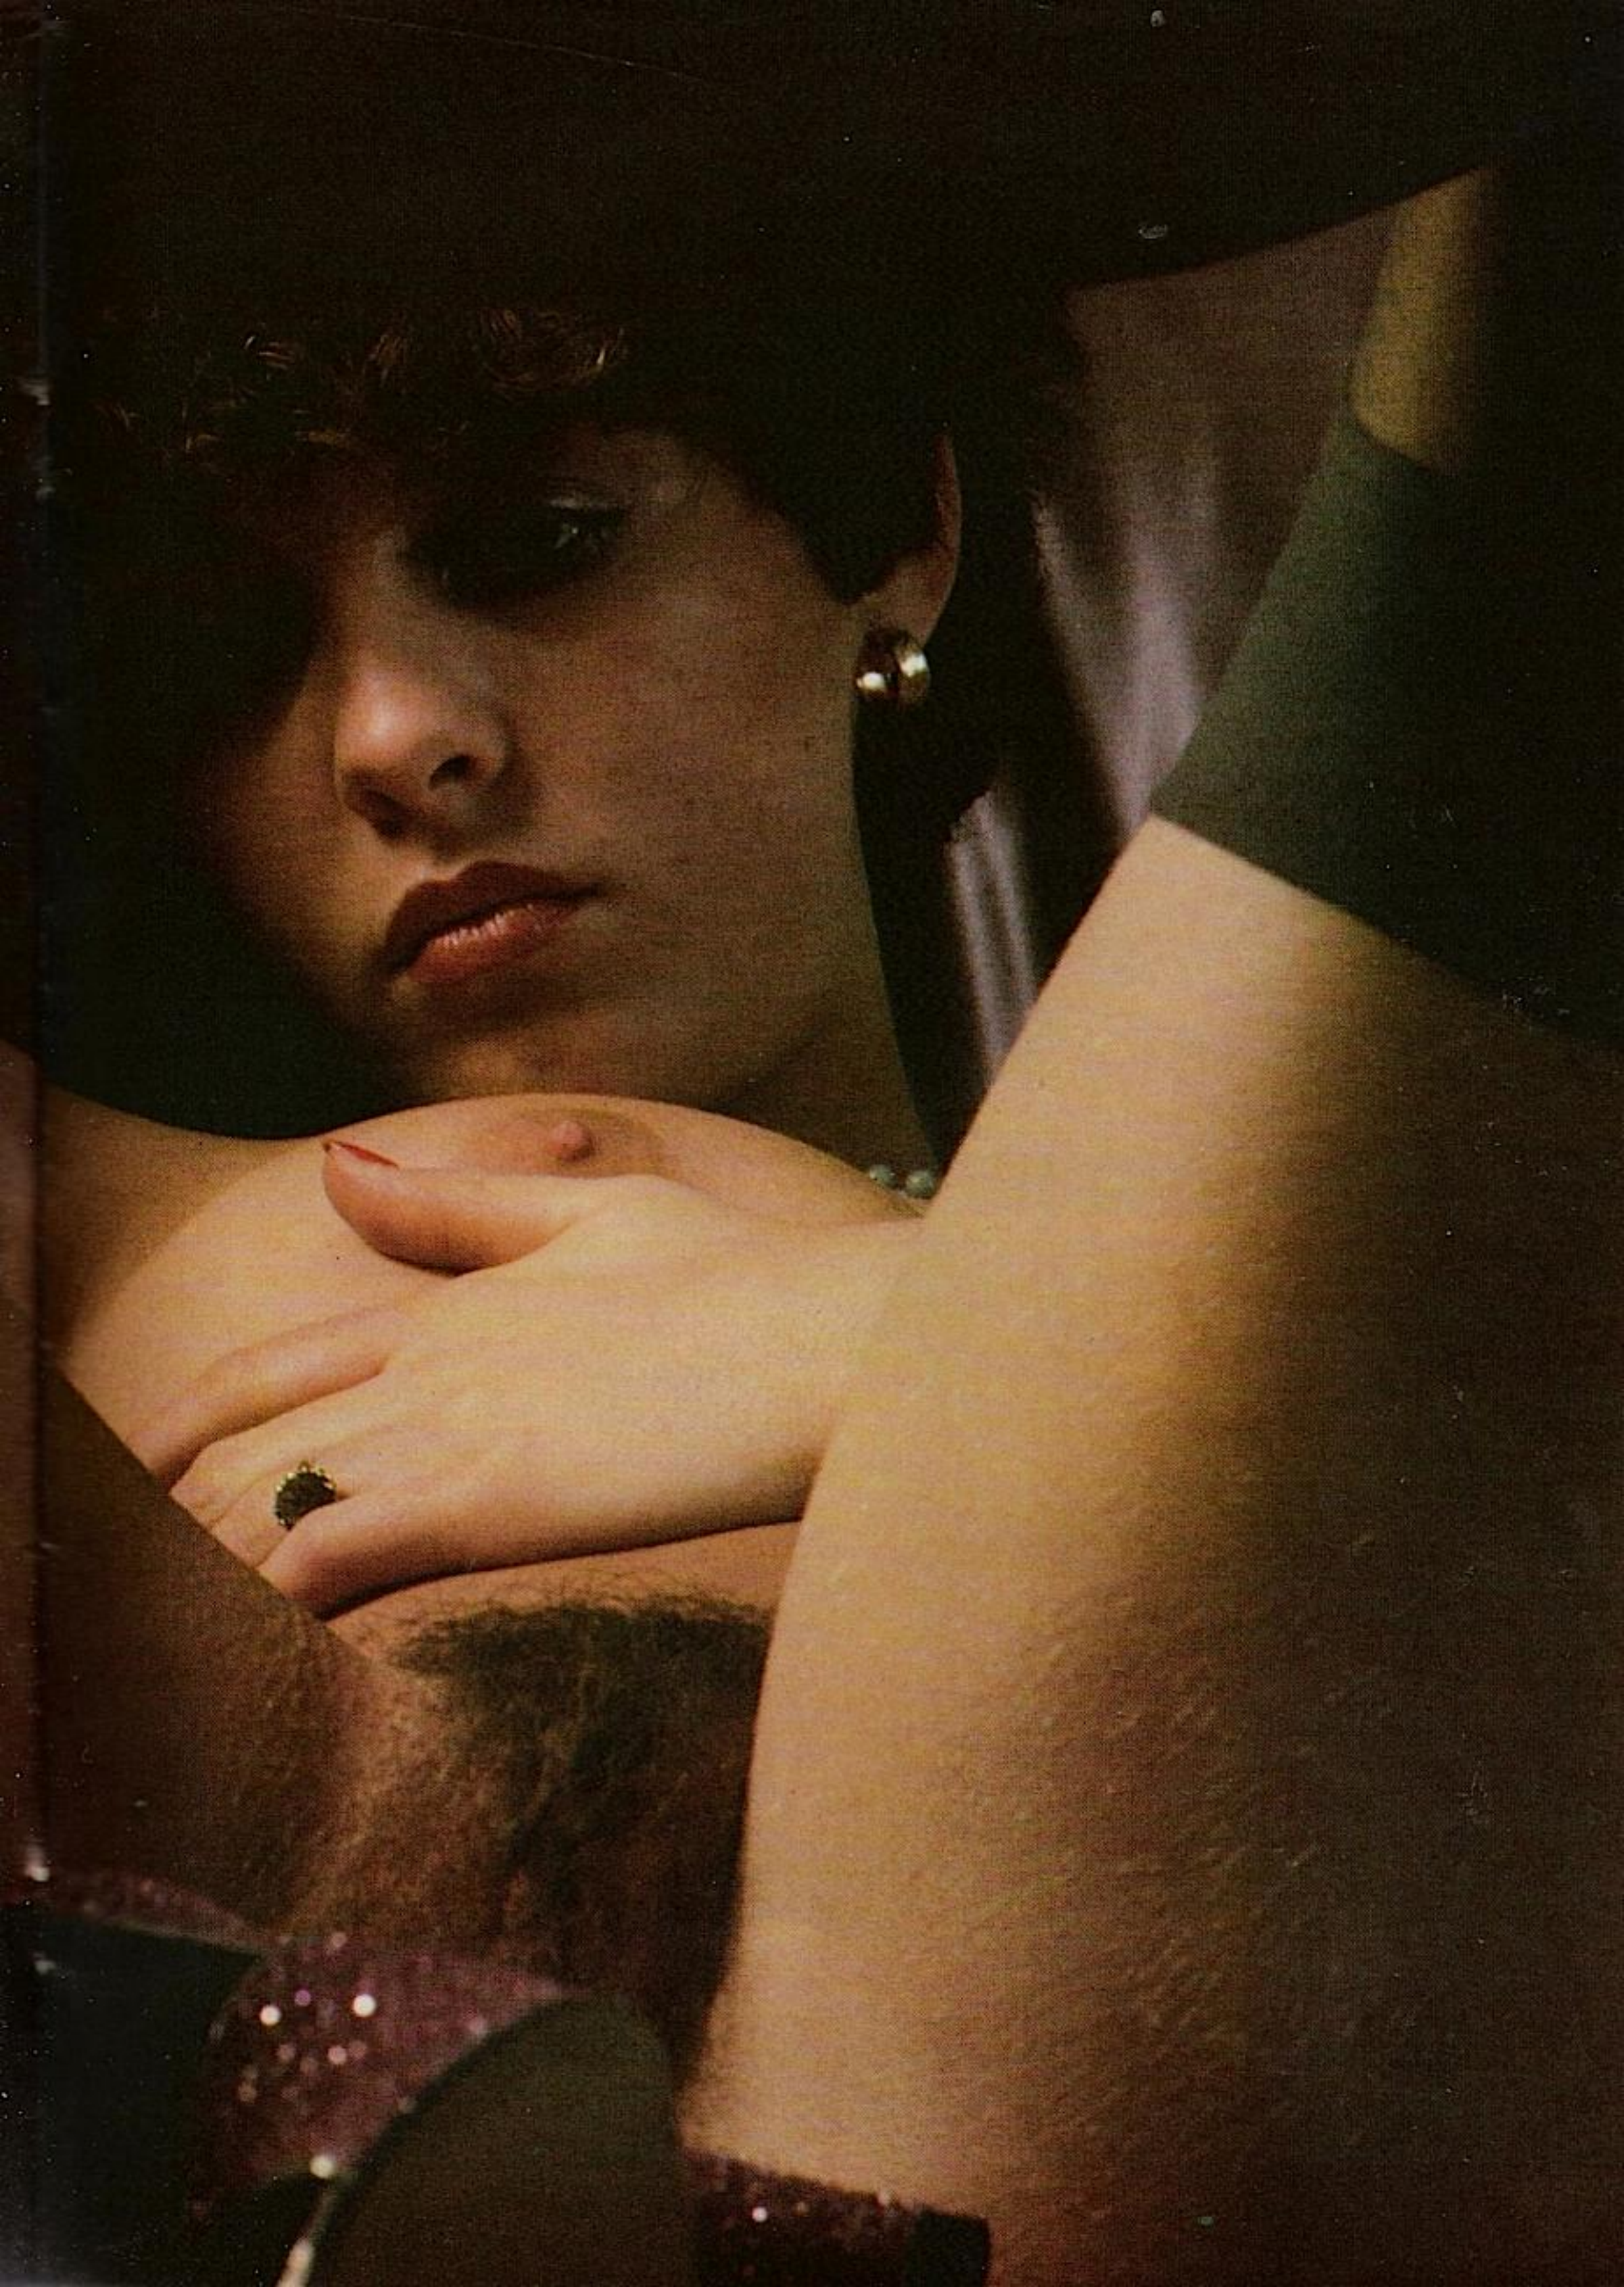
"You mean a strip-tease?" she gasped. No, we said, but she wasn't listening anymore. Her breasts were already peeking through her blouse. She had some sleazy jazz trumpet blaring out in the background. Slowly, she became naked.

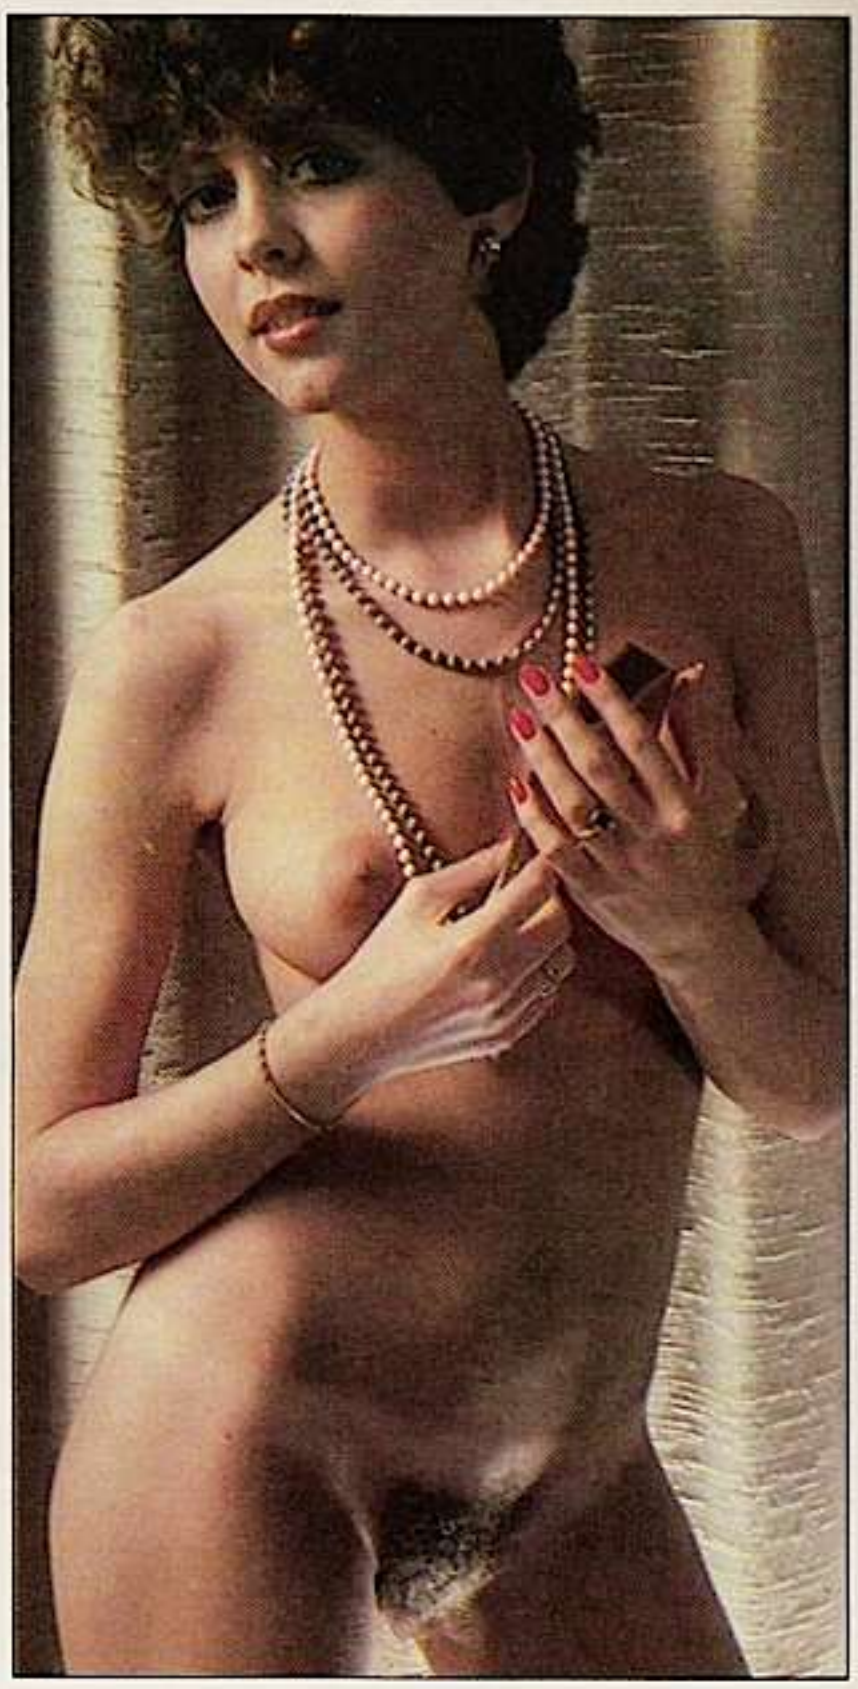
"Like this?" she asked, smiling. She could see the answer in our eyes.

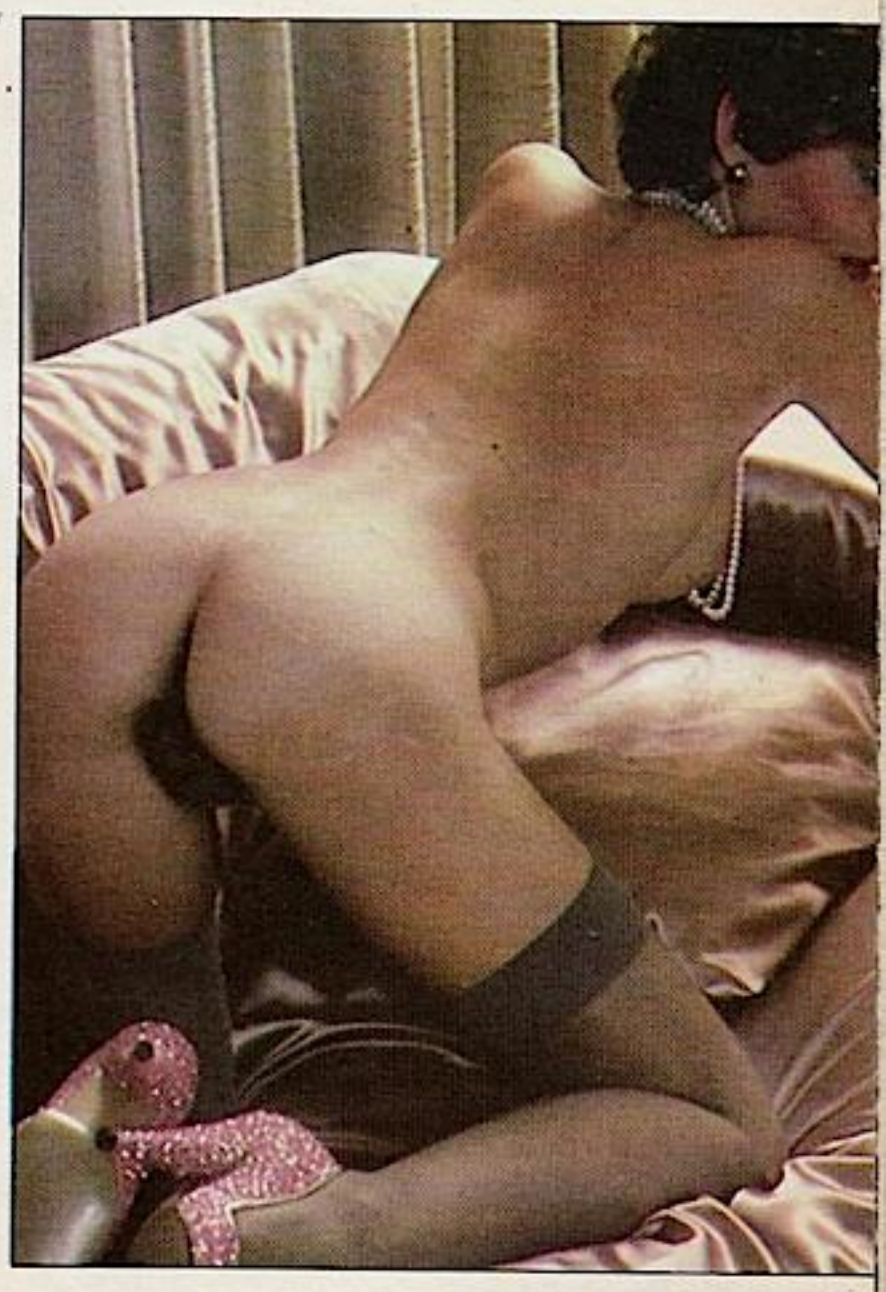












KNAVE Maid Of The Month

Irene

Irene likes her admirers to indulge in a little guesswork. Various attempts to find out more about her were met with: "I'm 22 years old, born under the sign of Scorpio, I live alone, and next to myself I like the feel of pure silk. The rest is all in your imagination."
Well, they say the camera doesn't lie. So nobody is hallucinating the wonderful shape of Irene, as she walked from room to room, answering the phone and stroking her own body in a light sort of way. It faithfully records the beauty of one woman and some of her secrets.

Jo
PHOTOGRAPHED BY R. B. KANE

"California's a great place... if you happen to be an orange." They said that 40 years ago. Jo lives in California and tastes twice as good as any citrus fruit. Just look at her body, for instance. Then imagine having it on a plate for breakfast—or lunch. The time of day wouldn't matter a great deal. Not if your appetite is as large as hers.

Jo is a compulsive eater with no weight problems. Take another look. She soaks up solar rays and wolf whistles without prejudice. But she's miles away right now. You could live with her for years and still stay hungry.

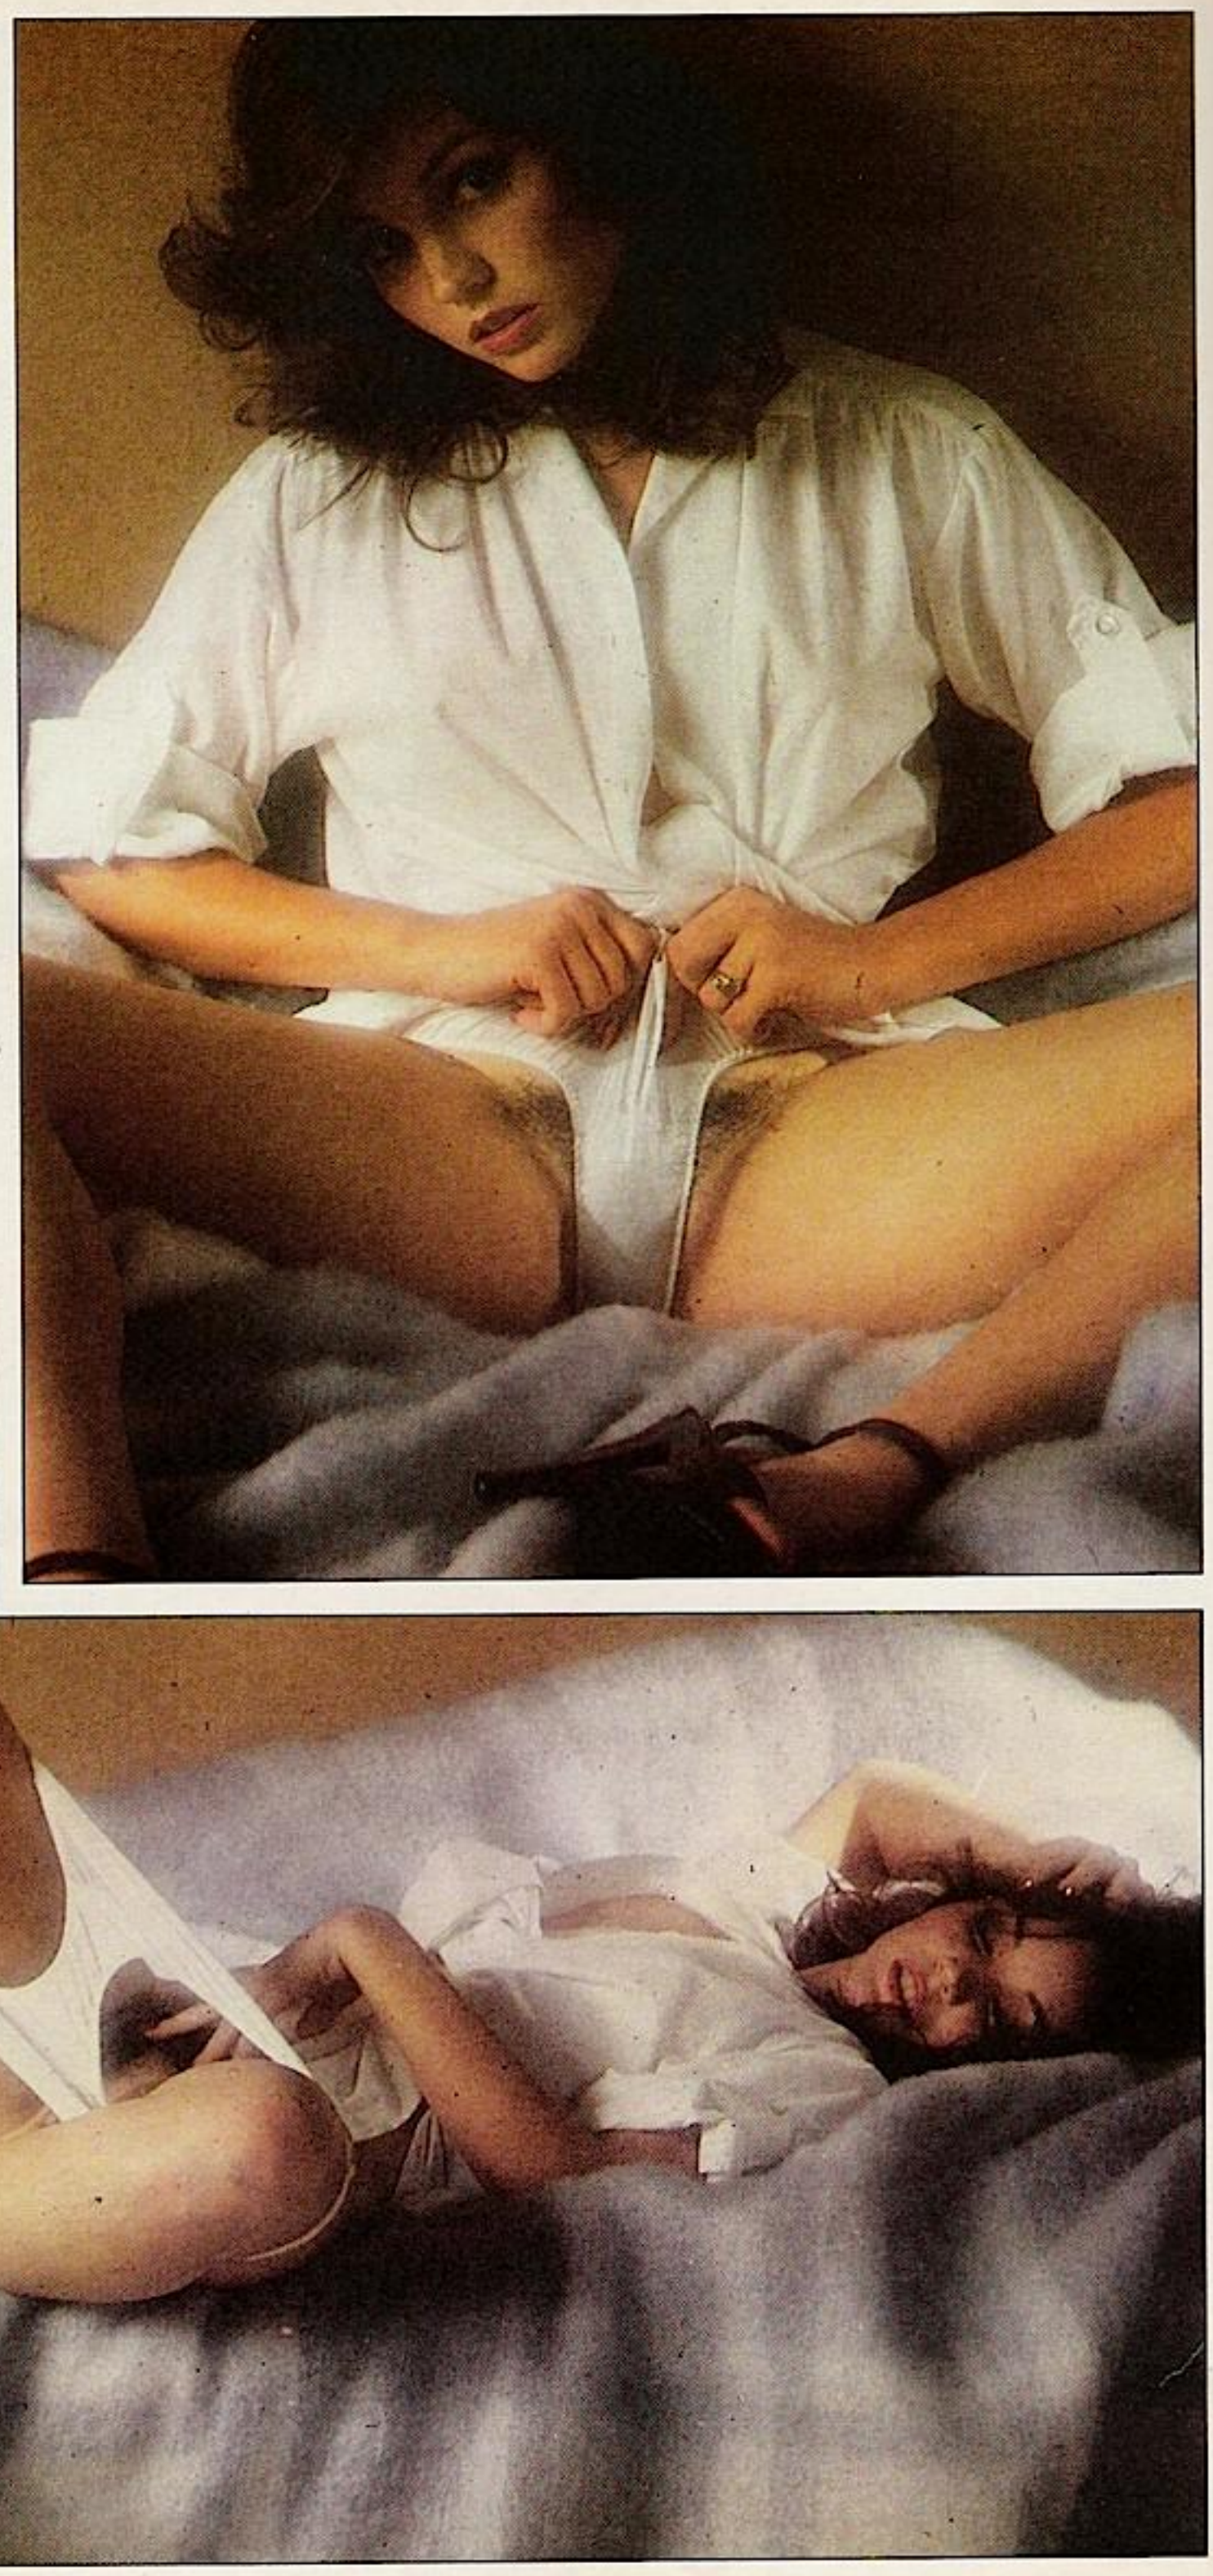
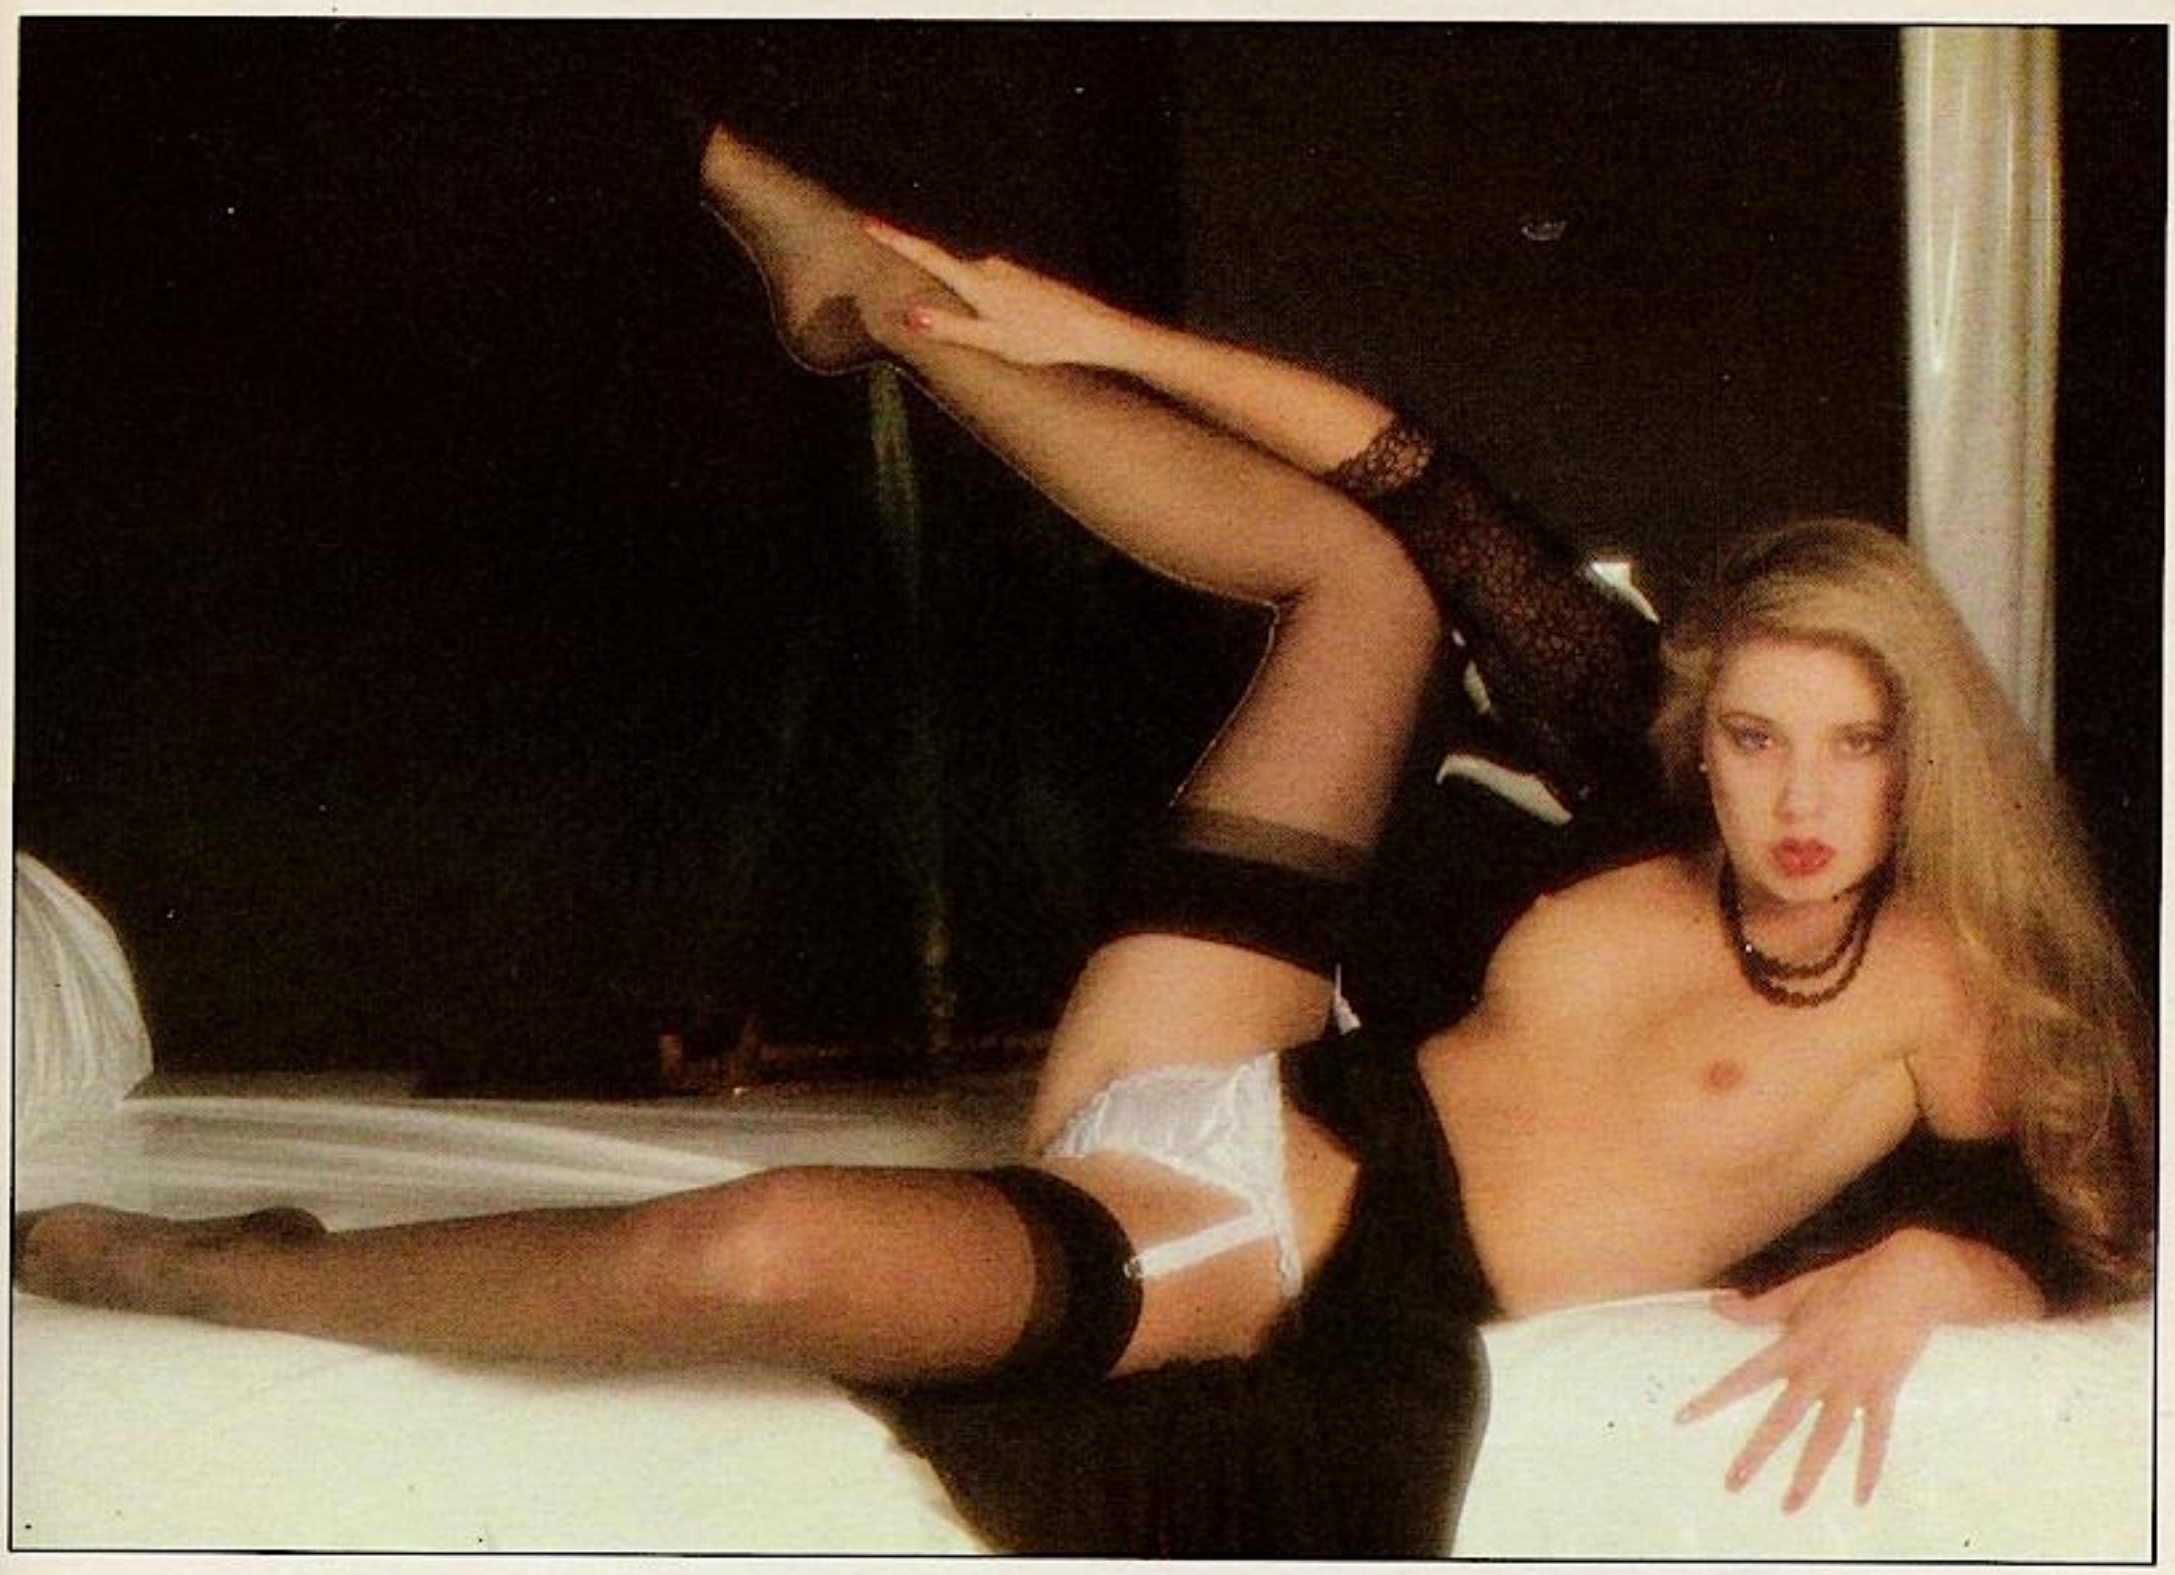
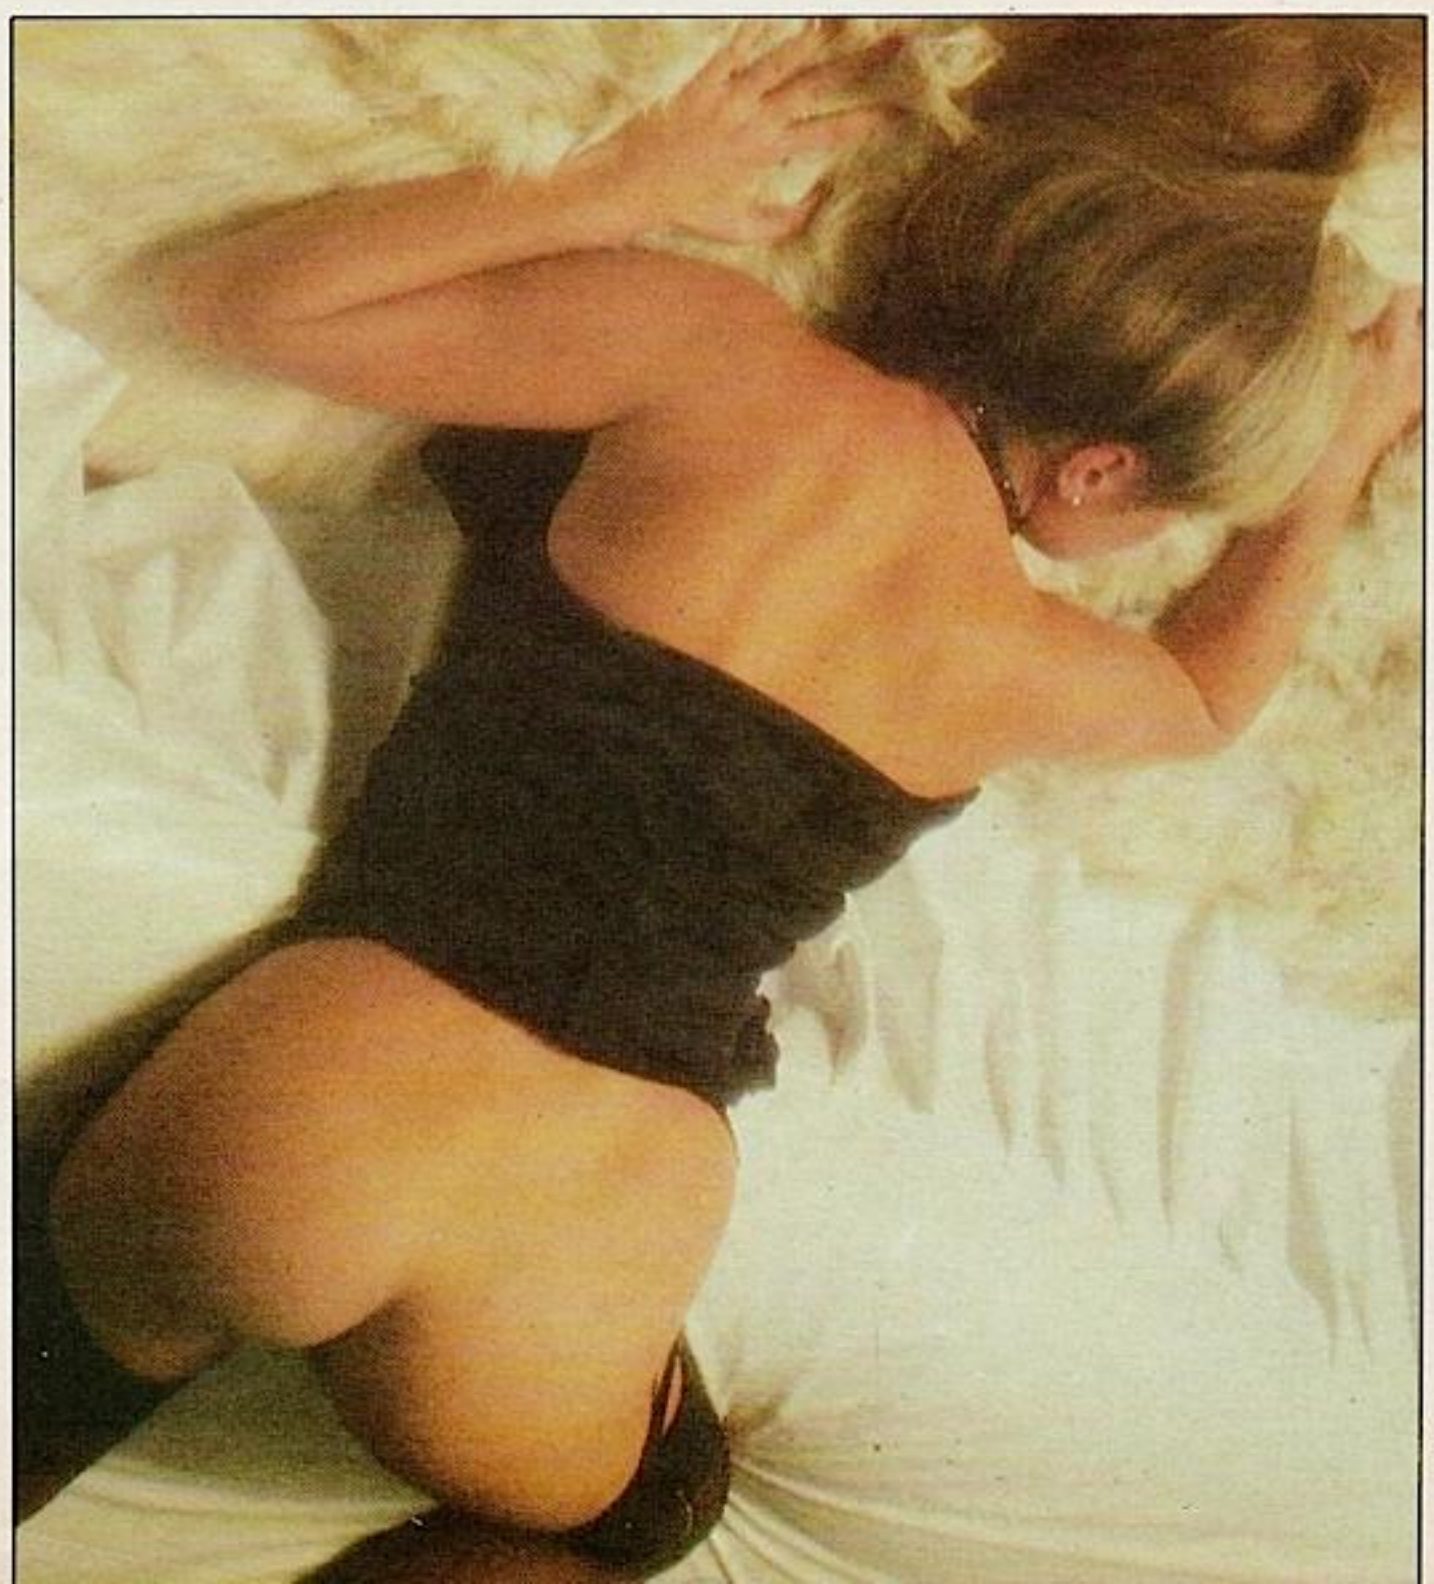
Sam

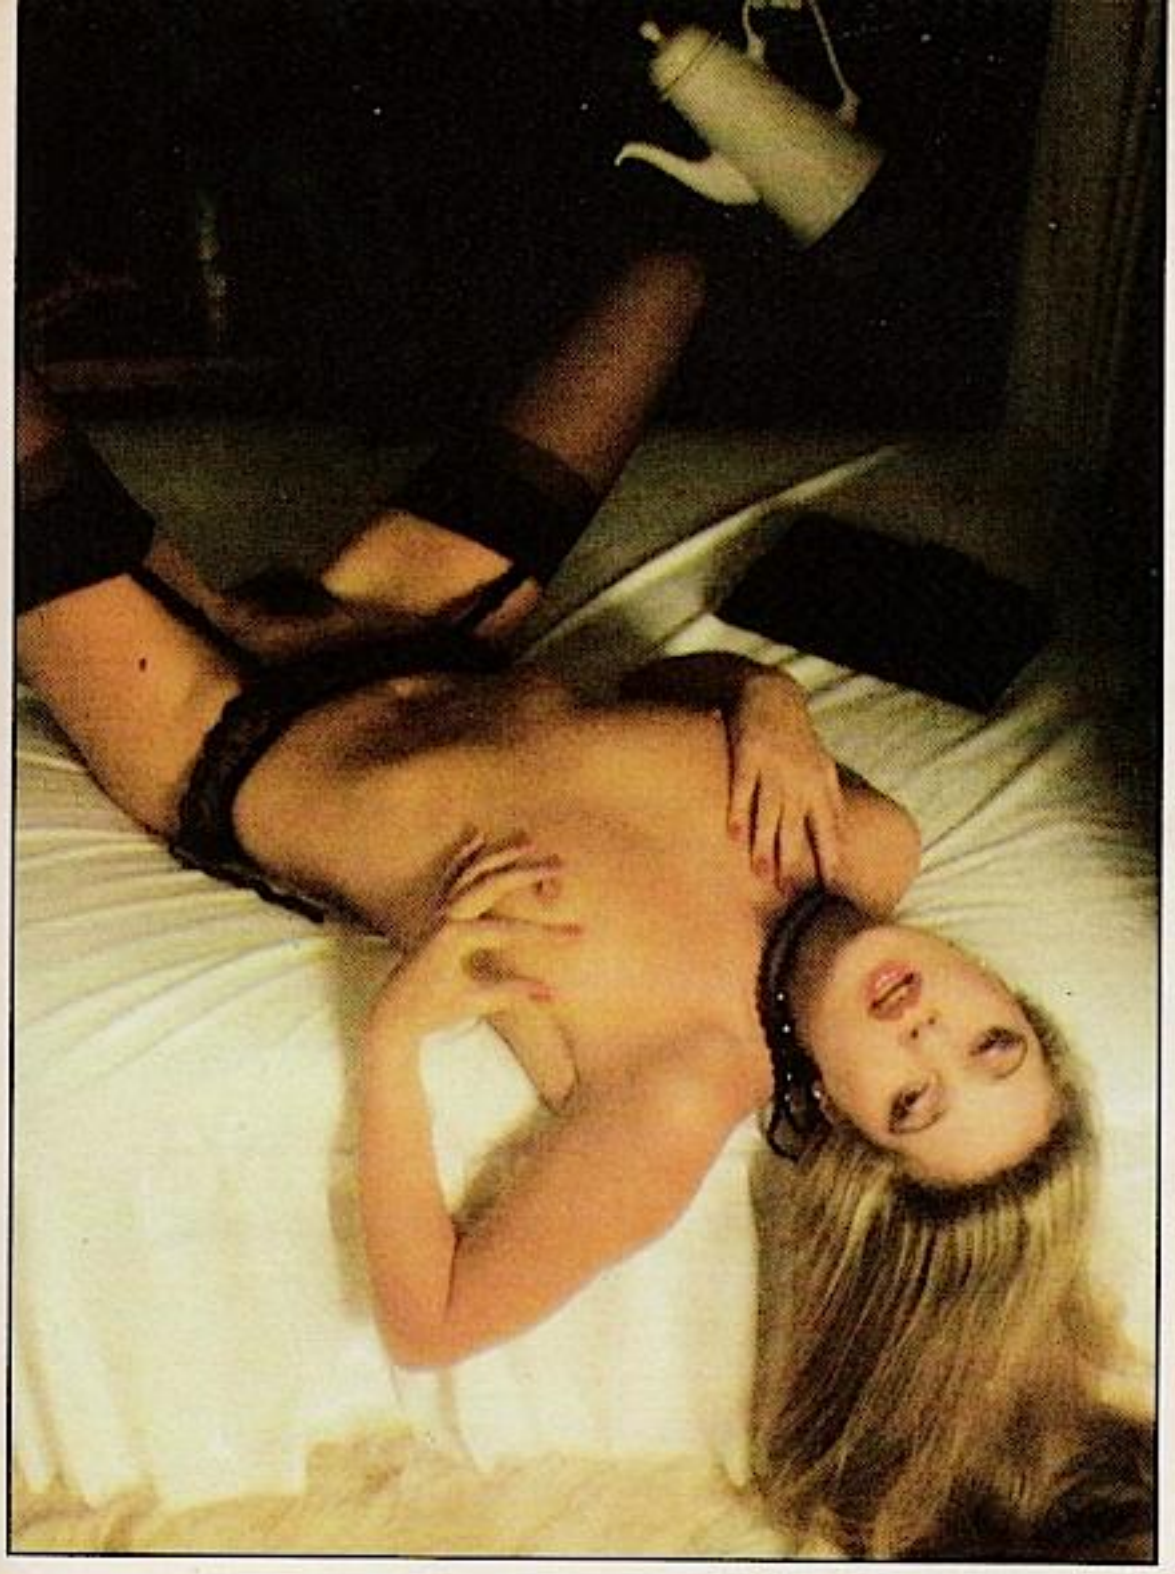
Sam used to be a magician's assistant. He sawed her in half, made her disappear inside oak-panelled cabinets, asked her to hold the hats that held the rabbits and smile while he threw knives. Then he her to marry him. She said no.

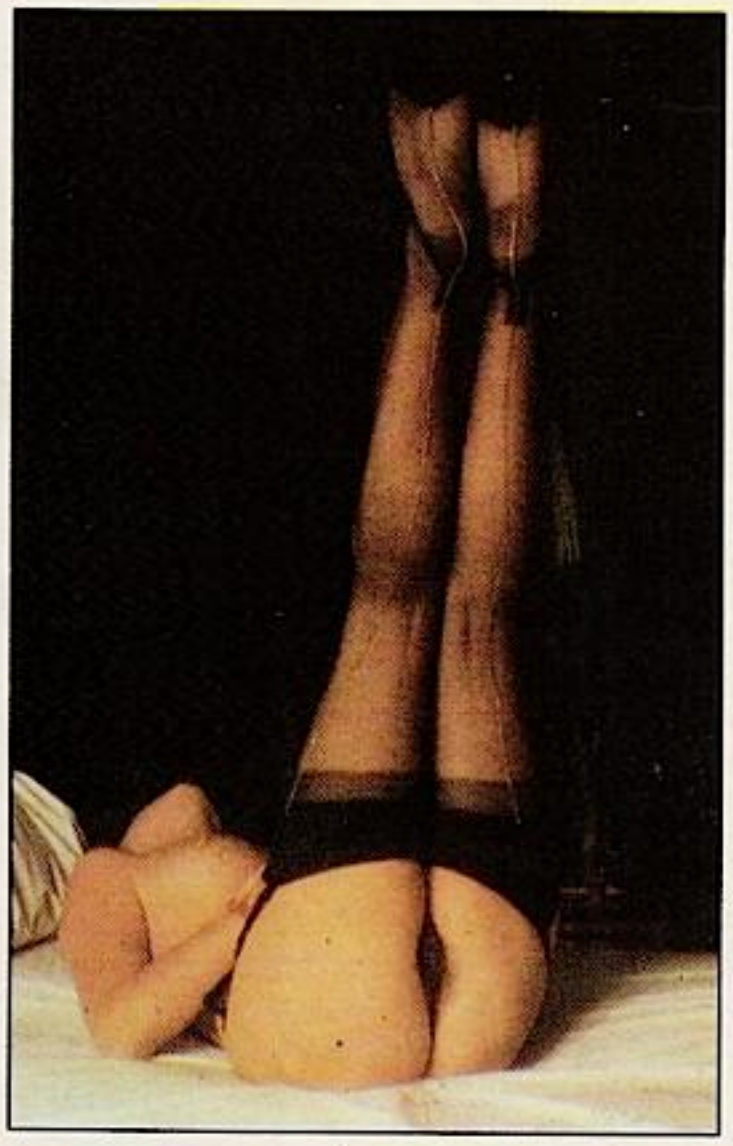


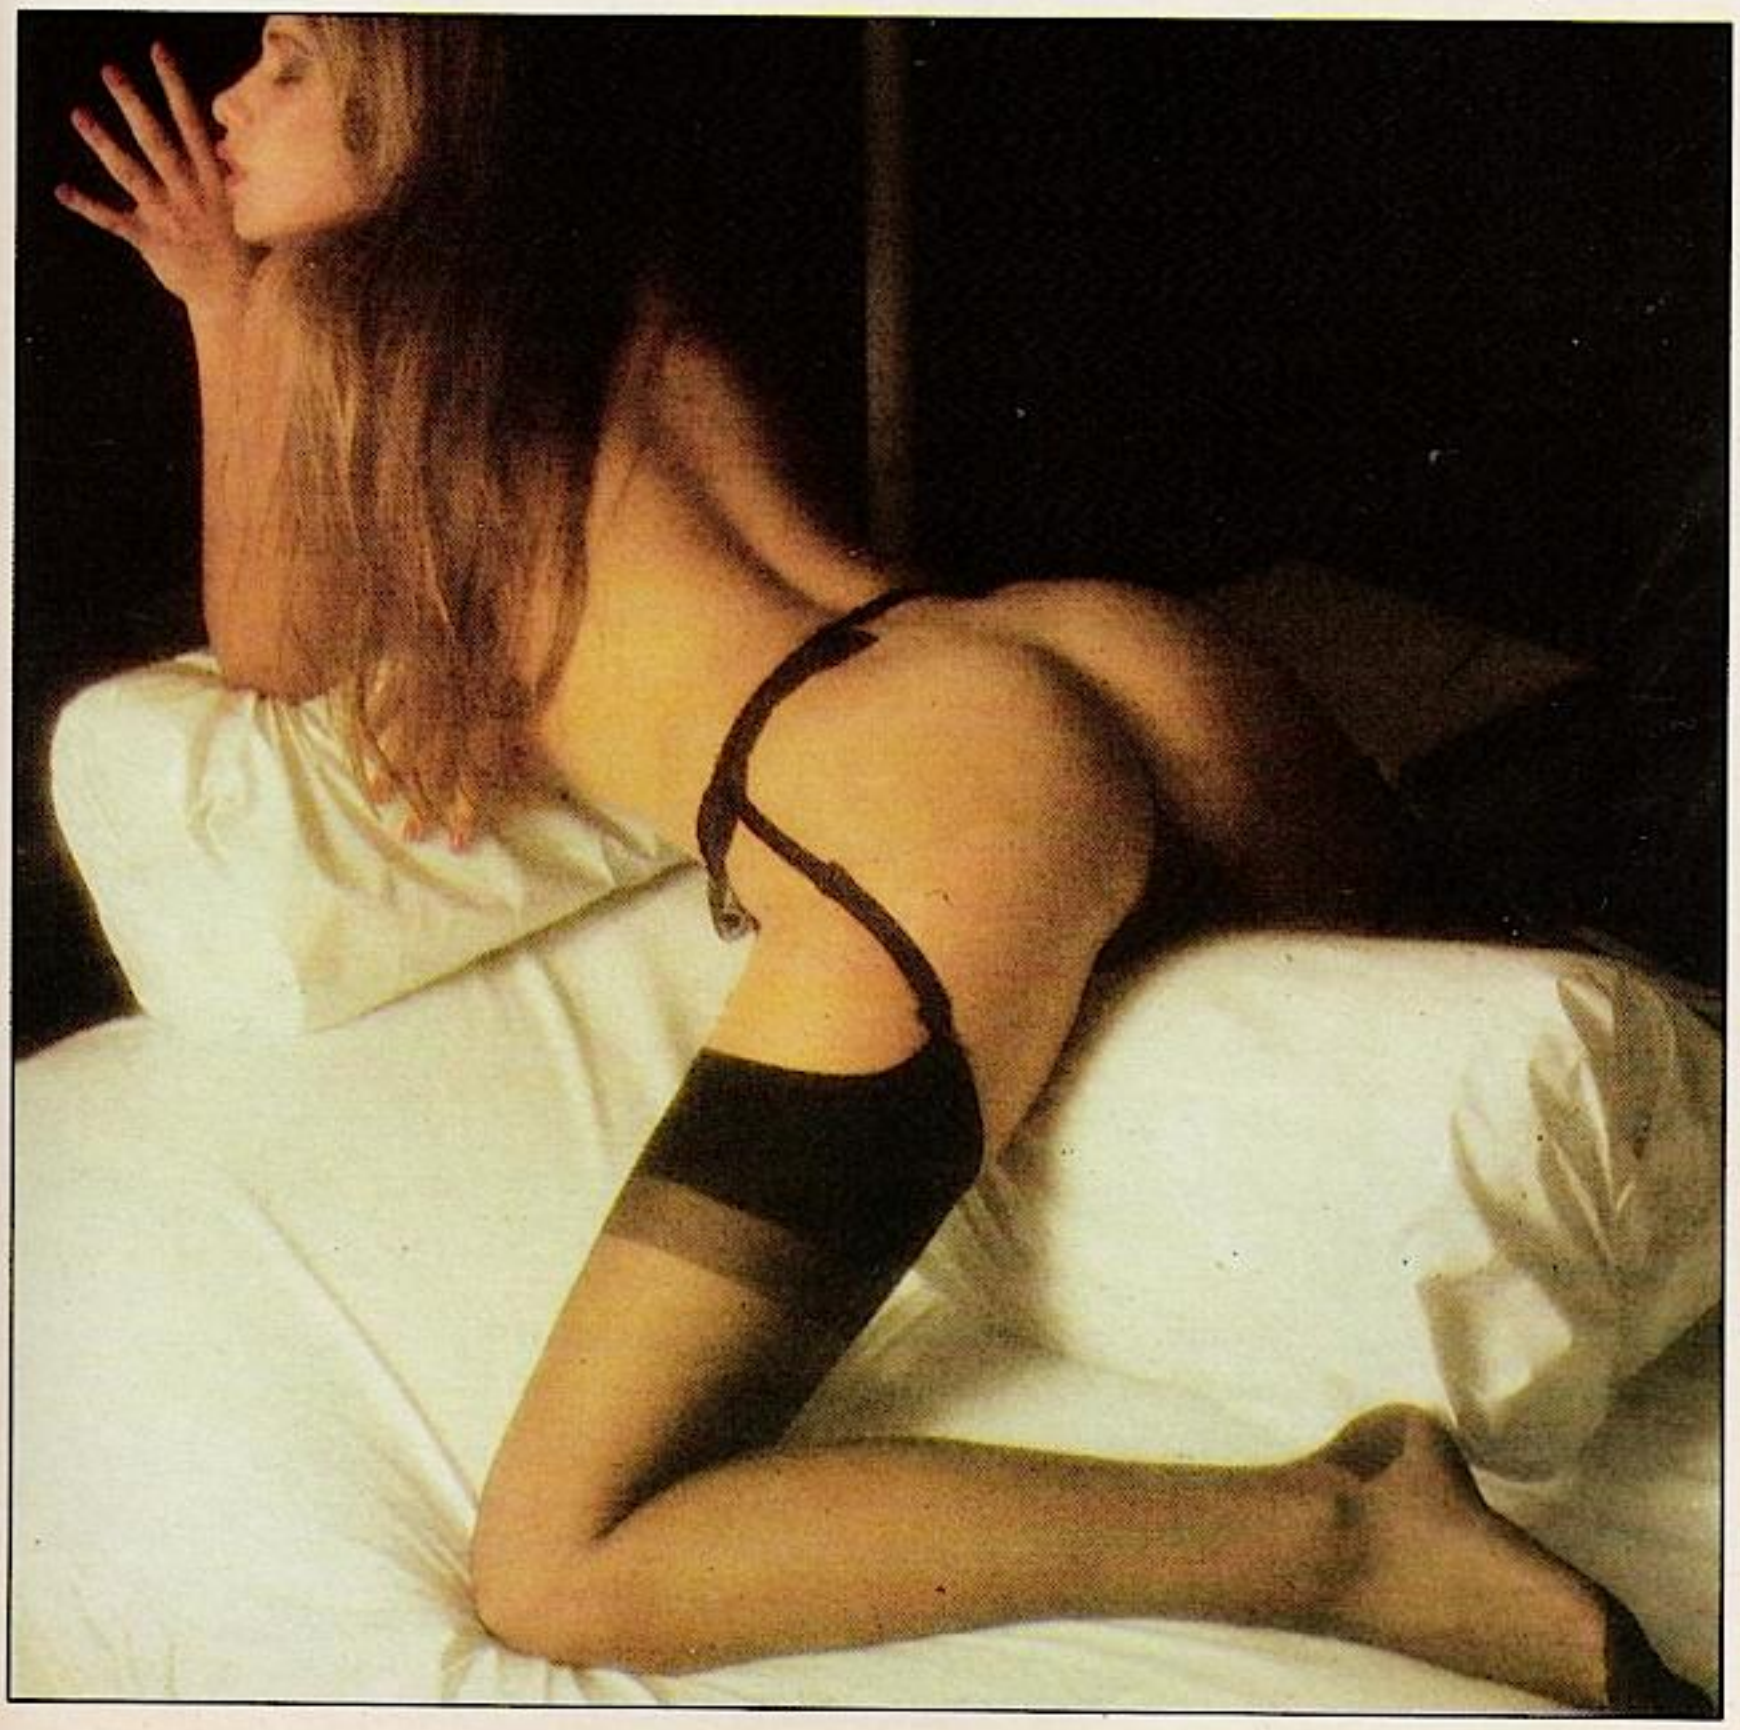
Stephanie

PHOTOGRAPHED BY LEWIS BLOOD










Stephanie (blonde and pliable) comes in a dark evening gown, with silk stockings. She loves to be touched, particularly on the inside of her thighs, which have a lot in common with cream and hot marble. You have to get close, though. She doesn't make a sound.
